BREEDON GROUP PLC

Breedon has become an official Annual Company Supporter of the Lighthouse Charity

Breedon Group plc (“Breedon” or the “Group”), a leading vertically-integrated construction materials group is pleased to become a company supporter of the construction industry’s very own dedicated charity, The Lighthouse Construction Industry Charity.

The Lighthouse Construction Industry Charity is the only charity that provides mental, physical and financial wellbeing support to the construction community and their families across the UK and Ireland. A crucial element of their strategy is to provide a wide range of free and widely available pro-active resources to help the industry.

Breedon’s support will further strengthen the charity’s important role of protecting the wellbeing of colleagues who work in construction.

Rob Wood, Chief Executive Officer at Breedon explains why the company has become an official supporter:

“We want to ensure that all our colleagues, and everyone that works for us, go home safe and well every day. That’s one of the reasons we have partnered with the Lighthouse Charity. It provides colleagues and their families with direct access to an array of services that help to look after their wellbeing. Together, we want to ensure everyone brings their best selves to work and that the industry encourages everyone to make safe decisions.”

Sarah Bolton CEO of the Lighthouse Charity said: “We are delighted to have the support of Breedon as a Company Supporter. Not only are they supporting us financially, their pro-active stance on promoting a positive wellbeing culture will ensure that their teams know how to reach out for support if they need it and encourage open conversations where people feel supported.”
